

SWEETHEART TABLE, ESTATE TABLE, OR HEAD TABLE?

Sweetheart Table:

You can spend some rare alone time with your beloved and still be able to mingle with your immediate family or bridal party seated at the surrounding tables.

Estate Table:

You want to be a part of your large families (some of whom are probably travelling from afar) so you can celebrate together. Joining their estate tables for dinner makes them feel even more connected.

Head Table:

When you think about it, you'll have plenty of date nights in the future — and this may be your only chance to celebrate with all your favorite people in one place. As your families become one, you want the opportunity for them to sit together.
